- e. `spim` – 0 bits; this mode is for setting up the dual boot feature. The encrypted bitstream cannot be located in the primary pattern location when using dual boot mode. Only the golden pattern can be encrypted. Therefore, this mode is not recommended. Selecting SPI or SPI<sub>m</sub> mode yields exactly the same bitstream. Both require no filler bits. Dual-boot not available in LatticeECP2MS and LatticeECP2S devices.
- f. `slave_spi` – 0 bits

Since the ECP5 device does not have different padding bits for different modes, this option is no longer valid nor necessary. Other file conversion options to choose from are:

- a. Verify ID Code – For bitstream debugging, inserts the verify device 32-bit JTAG IDCODE frame into the bitstream. The setting Default means do not override the bitstream. ON (insert) or OFF (omit) overrides the current setting in the bitstream. It is recommended to leave this as default.
  - b. Frequency – Used to adjust the master clock configuration frequency in the bitstream for the two master modes, SPI and SPI<sub>m</sub> mode. The setting has no effect on the Slave modes. The setting of Default means keep the bitstream setting. Selections other than Default overrides the current setting in the bitstream.
  - c. Compression – Used to compress the bitstream. Default means do not change the bitstream. ON (compress) or OFF (no compress) overrides the bitstream. It is recommended to not use compression with encryption. Compression not available on LatticeECP3 devices.
  - d. CRC Calculation – Disables the frame-by-frame CRC for bitstream debugging. It is recommended to keep the default of the bitstream for maximum configuration reliability.
5. To enter the encryption key, select the Edit Key button. The Encryption Key Setup dialog box appears:

6. Select the Encryption Key Format. The choices are ASCII or Hexadecimal.
7. Enter the Encryption Key. Select/deselect the Hide Encryption Key check box to turn off/on the visibility of the encryption key. If you enter less than the full Encryption Key code, the fillers will be padded on the left (most significant) position. GUI blocks that enter more than the maximum number of characters and will truncate the overflow. This step is necessary to protect the .bek file with a password. You can also load an existing Encryption Key Format File by selecting the Load From File button and then browse to select the .bek file. Select OK when your selections are complete. The Encryption Key is filled into the Step 2 window.
8. Select Save Key and enter the Encryption Key File Name (.key file). This step is necessary since an encrypted bitstream must have some record of the Encryption Key used. Select Save.
9. Enter the Encryption File Password (up to 16 characters) into the prompt and select OK.
10. To view what is being typed, un-check the Hide Password check box. The password is restricted to ASCII characters only. If fewer than 16 characters are entered, the fillers will be padded on the left position. The GUI blocks entering more than the maximum number of characters. This step is necessary to protect the .bek file with a password. Select OK. Select Next to continue to the Step 3 window.
